TO BE EFFECTIVE, INFORMATION KIOSKS NEED TO HAVE FOUR CRITICAL COMPONENTS:

1. EASY AND FAST ACCESS AROUND THE CLOCK
2. BEING ATTRACTIVE AND USER-FRIENDLY
3. CONTAINING INTERACTIVE AND TO-THE-POINT INFORMATION
4. ALLOWING FOR EASY AND LOW COST EDITS AND UPDATES

ADVANCE INFORMATION DELIVERY AT THE POINT OF SALE THROUGH CUSTOMER EMPOWERMENT.

Out-of-home customers seek information about products and services to help them with their buying decisions or to learn more about a topic of interest. Traditionally, information has been delivered in person or by offering paper-based flyers, brochures, posters and banners, making them inflexible, costly to keep updated, time-consuming to create, and resulting in mountains of paper waste.

Technology-based information delivery has overcome some of these difficulties, but most solutions are missing features, limiting their usefulness on both the customer and the kiosk owner side.

“I looked at several information kiosk software packages. TouchPresenter is my favorite.”
